

FROST PROTECTION FLEECE

Crop Cover

Fleece - Germination Sheet

Fleece is mainly used to control temperatures in early crop production.

Fleece offers exceptional levels of protection from frost, snow, heavy rainfall and drying effects of sun and wind and acts as a barrier to insects.

Agryl Covertan Fleece - Germination Sheet

There is a substantial difference in the microclimate created between a low quality fleece and a quality Agryl Covertan Fleece. It has much higher values for air and water permeability and light transmission. Fleece must be laid tight like a bed sheet as it is designed to stretch as the crop grows. Agryl Covertan Fleece has over 30% stretch and is best secured using soil or sandbags.
